

Global Research & MBTI Workplace Well-being

10 November 2017 (Fri) | 2pm - 5pm | SMU

Dear Partners,

We are delighted to invite you to the "Global Research & MBTI Workplace Well-being" Forum on 10th November 2017.

Guest Speaker:

Dr. Rich Thompson will be presenting the findings from the 2017 Global Well-being and Personality Type Research Study, including key takeaways that you can use with your teams and clients.

Richard C. Thompson, PhD
Snr. Director of Research
CPP, Inc

He will also provide a discussion of the current state research on the MBTI assessments, focusing on these main tracks:

Global Revision of the MBTI Instrument

Understanding the MBTI® instrument – Frequently Asked Questions and Empirical Answers.

Research conducted by CPP and others will be used to provide answers to common questions around the use of the MBTI instrument.

The role of MBTI Type on Workplace Well-being

This session will discuss the impact of MBTI Type on well-being at work, with new data from 2017 and suggestions based on Type Preferences

Dr. Rich Thompson will also be sharing research that is currently being conducted relating to type preferences at work.

While in early stages, there is evidence that an understanding of type preferences may be one of the key elements in enhancing one's health and wellness.

The future of the MBTI assessments

This will include a review of a research project directed towards an update of the MBTI assessment, along with some insights about the updated assessment in the Asia Pacific Region.

FEE:

- Complimentary for MBTI Certified Practitioners
- Non Certified Practitioner: S$20 (exclusive of 7% GST)
- Discount: S$10 off for 2 Non-Certified practitioners from the same organisation

REGISTRATION

📍 Online Registration: www.cppasiapacific.sg/training-events/events

- Registration Closing Date: 31 October 2017 (Tuesday)
- Registration is accepted on a first-come, first-served basis, subject to availability of seats.

