Type & Learning Workshop

MBTI® Teaching & Learning Styles

One-Day Workshop for Educational Institutions
Incorporating the MBTI® Instrument

BENEFITS TO YOU

- + Discover the most effective ways to use assessment tools to understand how they fit into an organization's career development approach
- + Recognize what motivates job satisfaction and the source of job dissatisfaction
- + Identify the stressors during learning
- + Assist displaced employees in transition to new areas compatible with their interest

Who Should Attend?

Educators, coaches, consultants and leaders/facilitators in the educational institutions who wish to better your teaching or facilitation strategies.

What you receive with enrollment

- + MBTI® Form Q Interpretive Report
- + Introduction to Type® booklet
- + Introduction to Type® and Learning

Who you are is How you teach

The MBTI® Type & Learning Styles workshop is designed for certified and non-certified practitioners who teach and provide guidance to individuals in the educational institutions.

Learning is a lifelong process. We learn at school, at work, at home, in our community, and in our recreational pursuits. Everyone has learning preferences that affect how and what he or she prefers to learn. As well, everyone can develop certain skills and strategies to make learning more effective.

Adapted from: Introduction to Type® and Learning (2008) by Donna Dunning

Workshop Details

Topics include the theory on which the MBTI® is based and discuss key concepts of how MBTI® Type has an impact upon individual's learning styles.

Knowledge of type preferences can help individuals discover their preferences and activities that they enjoy. By understanding the likes and dislikes during learning can enhance your learning and teaching strategies effectively, and provide necessary guidance to learners to becoming a more versatile learner.
