Who Should Attend?

Human resource professionals, consultants, managers, leaders, consultants, psychologists and counsellors involved in mentoring, coaching and improving understanding of self and others, and/or team building and compatibility.

The FIRO® (Fundamental Interpersonal Relations Orientation™) instrument is a powerful personality tool that assesses how a person typically behaves towards others and how that person would like others to behave towards him or her.

It addresses the core of personality – people’s underlying needs- and helps people understand their interpersonal needs and how these needs influence their communication styles and behaviour, thereby improving their personal relationships and professional performance. The FIRO® instrument measures interpersonal needs on three scales – Inclusion/Involvement, Control/Influence, and Affection/Connection. It is used widely for team building, leadership development, relationship building and self-development.

Course Details

The two days Certification Program provides an overview of the FIRO® instrument, how to administer the various forms of the instrument and how to interpret and explain the results.

To ensure understanding of key learning points and the ethical and professional use of the instrument, a series of short multiple-choice questions will be administered. Correctly answering most of these questions and actively participating in the various experiential exercises in the program will lead to successful completion of the certification program.
