

Type and Change Workshop

Who Should Attend?

Human Resource professionals, consultants, managers, leaders, facilitators, counsellors and psychologists in all types of organizations who are certified in the MBTI® instrument and wish to facilitate better understanding of personality type in the interests of managing and communicating change.

During the program, you will gain insights and understand the impact of MBTI Type on how one tends to react and respond during times of change and transition. You will be more aware of needs, typical reactions, and contributions that can help one to develop the resiliency and flexibility needed to be more effective in change management and communication.

What will you receive with enrolment

- MBTI® Personal Impact Report
- ITT and Change Booklet

MBTI® Master Class Series: MBTI® & Change Workshop

11 May 2018 Singapore

“Why are some people excited by change while others find it overwhelming & draining?”

“Why do some people want to jump into implementation while others want to reflect and think it through first?”

This workshop is designed for MBTI® certified practitioners who wish to deepen their understanding of how type influences one’s responses to change and how to use knowledge of type to manage and communicate change more effectively.

Everyone knows that people are different; Psychological type and the MBTI instrument provide a logical structure for recognizing important patterns in human behavior that explain some of the differences in people’s responses to organizational change, the strengths they bring, and what they need to survive.

Adapted from “Introduction to Type® and Change”

Workshop Details

The focus of this workshop is to provide practitioners with type-related exercises, tools and insights which can be applied in change management and communication programs. The workshop will cover:

- Organizational Change and Change Cycle
- Using Type to Manage Change
- Dealing with losses, change fatigue, resistance and stress
- Leadership Through Change
- Communicate and facilitate change effectively
